With due deference to my learned, religious friends I will say that the earth which we inhabit is a globe of matter which ages and eons ago was broken off, hurled from the sun, into space. In a molten state it was plastic, believe, a pure vacum of ethereal blue; known to science and is composed of lions of which could be placed on the point of a cambric needle. It is thrown off in waves from the center of all power, the sun, and pervades all matter, all space. It will crush anything that impedes its vibrations. I say this much in explanation of the surroundings of the earth, and while I may be 'contradicted, I am prepared to adduce proof. The mass of heat which we call earth havceeded upon its pathless course until it city crushed into four equal atoms, was again united by the action of those gases and became solid, forming what we call the surface of the earth. This solid or crust once formed, was no towards the sun. Had it not been for the melted and sent on its errand.
